Promoting and embedding equality and diversity in our culture and practices is pivotal to being an employer and a provider of choice. We also have a moral and legal responsibility to develop and support students to be responsible members of society. We will therefore take every reasonable step towards ensuring that equality and diversity is at the heart of everything we do.

We will treat all staff, students, visitors and stakeholders with respect and dignity. We unequivocally oppose all forms of prejudice and will not tolerate any discrimination on the grounds of disability, marital or civil partnership status; race; colour; ethnicity; nationality; gender and gender identity, trade union activity; age; religion or belief, pregnancy, maternity, paternity or sexual orientation.

Under the Public Sector Duty EKC Group will meet the requirements of the duty and will make best endeavours to go beyond the requirements where possible; in carrying out our activities we will consistently pay due regard to:

- Eliminating unlawful discrimination
- Advancing equality of opportunity
- Fostering good relations between people from diverse backgrounds

PURPOSE AND SCOPE:

The purpose of this policy is to demonstrate the Group's commitment to upholding and valuing the principles of diversity, inclusion, fair treatment and equality of opportunity.

The policy outlines the Groups commitments to the protected characteristics as specified in the Equality Act 2010 as well as the operational steps that the Group takes to advance and monitor equality within the organisation.

The policy applies to all members of staff and students, visitors, contractors, service providers, and any other persons associated with the functions of the EKC Group. Subcontractors are expected to work in accordance with this policy and evidence how they meet any equality objectives as determined by specific funding rules e.g. ESF. This policy covers all sites on which the Group carries out its activities.

DETAILS:

1. Definition of Terms

Discrimination is defined as an act which has the effect of treating a person less favourably because of factors related to their personal characteristics such as disability or sexual orientation, and unrelated to their merit. It can be direct (against an individual) or indirect (against a group of individuals that share the same protected characteristic). Discrimination on the basis of perception and association is also illegal.

Diversity encompasses all forms of difference in individuals even if they are not covered by legislative acts, such as height and weight.

Extremism can be defined as ideologies or beliefs considered to be far outside the mainstream attitudes of a society, generally to the extent that there is a violation of common moral standards. Extremism can take many forms, including political, religious and economic.

Harassment is unwanted conduct which may create the effect (intentionally or unintentionally) of affecting an individual's dignity or creating an intimidating, hostile, degrading, humiliating or offensive environment which interferes with an individual's learning or working environment. Harassment may be persistent or an isolated incident, and may be by an individual against an individual or involve groups of people.

Stereotyping is defined as a standardised mental picture that one person or group of people holds in common about another person or group of people, and can be either positive or negative.

Positive Action is the deliberate introduction of measures to eliminate or reduce discrimination, or its effects. It is not about special treatment for any one particular group, but the fair treatment of all people. It is distinct from positive discrimination which is unlawful.

This includes people preparing for medical treatment. Protection applies from the moment when the person indicates their intention to start the reassessment process, even if they subsequently change their mind.

There is a statutory duty on all public authorities, when carrying out their functions, to have 'due regard' to the need to eliminate unlawful discrimination and harassment, and promote equality of opportunity between trans people and other people.

To comply with this the College considers trans issues in the Equality and Diversity policy and considers the impact of policies and procedures on trans staff and students. We also consult staff and students on their work to promote gender equality and tackle discrimination against trans people.

For further details and guidance on how we support transgender staff and students, please refer to the related Management Guidance document.

The Group should provide a supportive environment for staff and students who wish it to be known that they are lesbian, gay, or bisexual. However, it is the right of the individuals to choose whether they wish to be open about their sexual orientation in the Group. 8.3 Retention, achievement and destinations by age, gender and ethnicity will be monitored to inform curriculum and assessment policies and address any achievement gaps.

9. Monitoring and review – staff

9.1 The Group will use the two main forms of monitoring, i.e. of the composition of the existing workforce and the recruitment process, looking at the workforce with reference to ethnicity, disability, age and gender in particular so that equality gaps can be identified and addressed where possible. The College will take Positive Action where possible to narrow and eliminate any gaps.

9.2 The Group will also categorise staff according to grade, contract type, i.e. whether full-time, permanent or temporary, age, length of time in post, place of work and salary. Records should also be kept of training, appraisals, promotions, re-grading and discretionary pay awards.
